PHOTOGRAPHER OF THE YEAR

Gold in Fine Art/Nudes, 1st Place Winner in Fine Art

Anima
George Mayer

Carl Gustav Jung believed that there was a feminine beginning, or female part of the psychic setup, in subconsciousness of every man. He gave it the name “Anima”, that is “soul” in translation from Greece. The anima is a personification of all feminine psychological qualities that a man possesses, such as haziness and vagueness of feelings and moods. In the process of working on creative projects, I tend to resort to a kind of meditation and try to establish a connection with my anima, which is depicted as a nude female figure. The red circle on the works is a reference to the planet Mars.

'Sothis Gin'

Wesley Dombrecht / Mathilda Perrot, Belgium

1st Place Winner in Advertising, Professional

Description: For this short serie images, we used an authentic French gin, it's called 'SOTHIS gin' and it's made by monsieur Maxime Chapoutier, it's distilled from grapes and wild plants grown near the vineyards in the Rhône Valley. The idea behind it, was to work around this gin, the herbs & the making of a drink with it, while combining it in some dynamic images. We used an artistic, graphic approach, with minimal styling, which gives it an aesthetic appearance.

Spices

Max Faber, Germany

2nd Place Winner in Advertising, Professional

Description: Lettering with different Spices together with Emil Bienefeld 2021
ChilliCurrySalt

Crumbling Beauty of Petersburg

Evgenii Domanov, Russian Federation

1st Place Winner in Architecture, Professional

Description: I filmed this episode in the city of St. Petersburg. The photo shows the front entrances of apartment buildings and mansions. Many of them are not being restored and are being destroyed. Unfortunately, many of them will soon remain only in the photo ...

Union of Diversity

Paul Brouns, Netherlands

2nd Place Winner in Architecture, Professional

Description: For me as an admirer of façades, "Omnizorg" in Apeldoorn (NL) is a very nice complex. The building's destination is a shelter for the homeless, drug addicts and people with psychiatric disorders. In spite of this noble, yet challenging function, the façade expresses a bright and structured playfulness through the colourful window shutters in many different positions in combination with the reflective / glazed surface of the bricks.

Moments Reflected

Øyvind Hjelman, Norway

1st Place Winner in Book, Professional

Description: Øyvind Hjelman welcomes viewers into his richly poetic and mysterious photographic world. The lyrically sequenced and meticulously printed duotone plates presented in this volume are characterized by deep shadows, bursts of penetrating light, and the gauzy aesthetics often associated with analog photographs made using plastic or other low-tech cameras. His enigmatic photographs maneuver slowly below the surface. It is on this subliminal level that the personal becomes universal and alludes to the human experiences of memory, fear, loss, sexuality, hope, nightmares, and doubt.

Mincéirs (Irish Travellers)

Joseph-Philippe Bévillard, Ireland

2nd Place Winner in Book, Professional

Description: Upon Joseph-Philippe Bévillard's move from the US to Ireland at the beginning of the new millennium, he hailed a taxi ride from Shannon Airport. Just minutes into the ride, he caught his first glimpse into the world of Irish Travellers (Mincéirs). Witnessing their effervescent spirit and nomadic lifestyle captivated Bévillard, and ignited something personal in him. A seed was planted that would, many years and many friendships later, change his course and life as an artist and lead to his most defining and celebrated body of work, presented here, for the first time, in book form.

The Last Days of Stepanakert

Ricardo Garcia Vilanova, Spain

1st Place Winner in Editorial, Professional

Description: An unresolved decades-old conflict over Nagorno-Karabakh, a mostly ethnic Armenian enclave in Azerbaijan near the border between the two countries, flared up on September 27, resulting in the killing of thousands of soldiers and civilians on both sides over the next six weeks. The latest escalation of violence was the worst seen since the 1990s, turning Stepanakert - the de facto capital of the breakaway state, which calls itself the Republic of Artsakh - into a fading and besieged city. These were the last days of Stepanakert

Unyielding Floods

Peter Caton, United Kingdom

2nd Place Winner in Editorial, Professional

Description: Floods in South Sudan have triggered an alarm for acute food insecurity across the country, says IPC report. About 1.3 million children suffer from acute malnutrition, the deadliest hunger, exacerbated by the spread of malaria and unsafe drinking water connected to the floods. 1 million people have been affected by the floods since July 2020; Jonglei State is at the heart of the devastation. The isolated area of Old Fangak, north of Jonglei, will starve by the start of 2021. This project documents the devastation on three levels: natural disaster, food insecurity, loss of dignified living.

Tableaux Vivants

Alessia Santambrogio , Italy

1st Place Winner in Events, Professional

Description: The images of this project highlight the desire to inscribe each element within a space composed strictly, so as to create a constant harmony within which the eye is induced to move with curiosity. The most important element is the desire to seek a new relationship between the bodies of the actors and the space in which they move like in a painting. The ample breath given to the scenes is predominant and seems to widen beyond the boundaries of the scenic dimension and in which the delicate relationships between the individuals, can be perceived.

The Wedding Day

Rui Caria, Portugal

2nd Place Winner in Events, Professional

Description: At the entrance to the church, on the wedding day, I heard shouts behind me; was the bride and godparents trying to hold the balloons that were fleeing.

Anima

George Mayer, Russian Federation

1st Place Winner in Fine Art, Professional

Description: Carl Gustav Jung believed that there was a feminine beginning, or female part of the psychic setup, in subconsciousness of every man. He gave it the name "Anima", that is "soul" in translation from Greece.The anima is a personification of all feminine psychological qualities that a man possesses, such as haziness and vagueness of feelings and moods. In the process of working on creative projects, I tend to resort to a kind of meditation and try to establish a connection with my anima, which is depicted as a nude female figure. The red circle on the works is a reference to the planet Mars.

Wire

Liliane Schwab, Canada

2nd Place Winner in Fine Art, Professional

Description: The Wire. Playing with old wire and objects found in my home.It's always a game to discover what you can create. An other visual adventure with some frustration on the way. The wire has it's own stubborn personality. It does not always end up as planned. I surrender to my wire and work till it looks good. I never analyze my work, it's just what it is. The end result. Still an ongoing project.

Pollino: A Look Into The Past

Roksolyana Hilevych, Italy

1st Place Winner in Nature, Professional

Description: The loricata pine in the Pollino park appear to those who look at them, clinging to the rocks, exposed to the rigors of winter, winds and bad weather that draw their contours in a unique way; almost as if they were moving arms pointing to the sky, legendary figures with tormented movements, offer scenarios that entice the visitor to interpret with their own creativity. Being in the midst of the loricata pines or "living fossils" is like a fairytale, it seems to go back in time. A place that is little known and unspoiled, however it deserves to be seen all over the world.Pollino NP

Salty World

Boyan Ortse, Netherlands

2nd Place Winner in Nature, Professional

Description: A serie of the unknown pink salt pans in the south of France shot by drone.

Prozac

Arseniy Neskholdimov, Russian Federation

1st Place Winner in People, Professional

Description: Since I was 20, I have been prone to depression. Finding antidepressants unhelpful, I decided to get out of Moscow and find somewhere I could be happier, chronicling my own experiences. But the depression followed me. People imagine that depression is like ordinary unhappiness, only more so. It isn't. And the things we typically do to cheer ourselves up can't be relied on as treatments. I tried a change of scene to get away from my troubles, but to no avail. I think depression has to be understood and treated as an illness, although I am not sure how.

Bubble Boy

George Kamper, United States

2nd Place Winner in People, Professional

Description: Series of whimsical images created by husband and wife team George and Sherryl Kamper while self isolating during the corona pandemic. George and Sherryl engaging in activities representing various yearly milestones and holidays with George inside an inflatable, protective, 6 foot bubble. Images represent a fun approach to reinforcing self isolation during the coronavirus pandemic. 'Bubble Boy' is a two person operation. George controls the camera remotely from inside the bubble while Sherryl executes most of the propping, styling and art directing from outside the bubble.

Giancarlo

Giampiero Marcocci, Italy
1st Place Winner in Portfolio, Professional

Description: Giancarlo suffers from a disabling psychiatric disease, which makes relationships with others, contact with himself and with the world around him difficult. He is an artist, he is simply a free man, even if this freedom must necessarily cost him a continuous internal swing that is difficult to identify, and tries to adapt himself to a world that perhaps is going fast, is asking too much, is tiring. I wanted to tell about his loneliness and highlight how often invisible and silent suffering is hidden in discomfort.

Human

Christy Lee Rogers, United States
2nd Place Winner in Portfolio, Professional

Description: Drama, movement and light come to life in swirls of color, set against the darkness of night in Rogers' depiction of the strength and opposing vulnerability of humanity. The name human was selected to presuppose a coming together of humanity into a modern renaissance, kindled by adversity and tribulation, and flowering into unforeseen new realities. If art was a passageway into the soul and something more profound within ourselves, she reminds us of our own vulnerabilities within a landscape of hope and magic.

WINNERS 2021

NEW TALENT OF THE YEAR

Gold in Portfolio/Personal, 1st Place Winner in Portfolio

Suspended Lives

Salvatore Montemagno

We are living in very dark times, full of anguish and fear, coming to us through the TV screens with real-time updates on the pandemic and through the window panes with the harrowing sound of sirens that repeat and chase each other all day. The pandemic has upset our lives, suspended them, and locked up at home, we wait to start living them again. I took these photos of my neighbors during the last period my region was in the red zone. One photo a day, at sunset. A series of portraits of a humanity that looks out, frightened, tense, but hopeful, has emerged.

Hypocritical

Yu-Heng Chen, Taiwan

1st Place Winner in Advertising, Non-professional

Description: It's OK to be hypocritical.

Live Melodies

Michele Dolci, Italy

2nd Place Winner in Advertising, Non-professional

Description: Live recording of the album i = r

Abandoned Sanatorium

Guenther Reissner, Austria

1st Place Winner in Architecture, Non-professional

Description: Images of an abandoned sanatorium somewhere in Germany.

Toilet Room

Jun Yeh, Taiwan

2nd Place Winner in Architecture, Non-professional

Description: Looking back to our memories, toys were always source of inspiration to kids. Imagine if the toys started moving of their own will in the middle of the night just like the Disney did in the superb film "Toy Story". The imagination often invites me to the world at night. Walking along the street at the countryside park or beside the ocean, leads me to those "big guys" by chance. In the daytime, they should play a roll and give us an image of what people exactly expected. But at night, well, here's your chance to meet another side of their personality. I tried using Large Format Film Camera to capture.

Hombrecino (Little Man)

Susana Cabanero, Spain

1st Place Winner in Book, Non-professional

Description: For over 35 years my grandfather kept a list of typed names in his wallet. They were neighbours and friends who had been executed at the start of the Spanish Civil War, and had been missing ever since. Since I was a child, he would often read those names to me, emotional, describing with amazing detail who they were. My desire to understand his longing led me to places that held the memory of the conflict and the disappeared. What I liked best was showing him what I had seen on my return. One day I took him with me to meet with the names of the list for the last time.

07:27:47

Jonas Dahlström, Sweden

2nd Place Winner in Book, Non-professional

Description: The images in this series are part of my book project called "07:27:47". Sorted by the hour, minute and second of their exposure, they form a sequence that takes place during exactly 12 hours. Throughout this project, I tried to capture the graphic beauty of ordinary environments by focusing on the strict and minimalistic aesthetics that arise in the interaction between light, shadows and geometric shapes. Combining it with the immediacy of street photography, it can be seen as a study not only of the urban environment, but also of the relationship between this environment and the human being.

Unrest In Portland

Jordan Stern, United States

1st Place Winner in Editorial, Non-professional

Description: Following the death of George Floyd in police custody, protests against police brutality broke out all across the United States. After 48 nights of continued protest in Portland, Oregon, the Trump Administration sent in groups of Federal Agents for the stated purpose of protecting federal property from vandalism. Unmarked Federal Agents in tactical uniforms now policed the protests using less-lethal munitions, flash bangs, tear gas, and arresting protestors to stop the protests. This excessive use of force had the opposite effect and re-ignited the nightly protests to their peak.

Plastic, One Enemy?

Antonio Bernardino Coelho, Portugal

2nd Place Winner in Editorial, Non-professional

Description: A plate, a fish or a heart: all filled with plastic, to remind us that we are eating it. Simplicity is the key to this series, betting on the simple and appealing. Use simple materials and, with these materials, create images, also simple, but that leave us thinking. This is what happens when we see a fish pouring pieces of plastic, a plate of spaghetti that is not, or a fried egg made of lids. Everything addresses the same idea: the ingestion of plastic micro-particles that are already part of the diet of animals and humans.

Wyvern

Alfred Jurcalis, United Arab Emirates

1st Place Winner in Events, Non-professional

Description: Amidst the absence of daylight, women's crew of Abu Dhabi based dragon boat team (Firebase alpha) in United Arab Emirates, pursue digging their paddles & oars through an evening water exercise illuminated by building lights surrounding their training grounds. All in preparation of an upcoming dragon boat regatta.

The Power of Faith

Vladimir Karamazov, Bulgaria

2nd Place Winner in Events, Non-professional

Description: This is a small Christian church in a municipality near the capital of Bulgaria. Here every year on the day, which is a holiday of beekeepers, an interesting and breathtaking ritual is performed with its beauty and bright vibrations. Hundreds of believers and honey producers gather to celebrate the holiday and honor their patron saint. Thousands of jars of honey and candles are arranged in the shape of a sacred cross to illuminate the honey. The belief is that the fiery copper cross will bring health and a good harvest to beekeepers. It is also believed that consecrated honey has magical and h

The Aesthetic of The Movement

Jean-Paul Soujol, France

1st Place Winner in Fine Art, Non-professional

Description: Getting to find the perfect exposure time to capture the movement of the surf in order to find the perfect harmony of the movement.

White Door

Ahmad Kaddourah, Palestine

2nd Place Winner in Fine Art, Non-professional

Description: White Door Series

Bubble Lion

Matthew Bagley, Australia

1st Place Winner in Nature, Non-professional

Description: I've watched them move the way they interact play express emotion. Before I came to the moment I know what I wanted, Silky smoothness of fur the humanistic expression in there eyes but above all the bridge between air and water the trail that connects them to the surface. A small moment in the underwater world were they feel understood something I can take with me in an image. Now you have my insight into this image hopefully you can feel the bridge that connects us to the surface when you are underneath.

"flowers In The Night" (Series)

Olga Posth, Ukraine

2nd Place Winner in Nature, Non-professional

Description: You are presented the art-photo-series "Flowers in the night" being done late at night as a result of my passion and search for visual and emotional expression of colour. I aimed myself to find and direct some bright chromatic spectrum of light on the live flowers, as the greatest objects to accumulate and pass any variations and vibrations of colour and light. I was guided by not only my knowledge of colour but also by my intuition. There were no filters or photoshop manipulations.

Muddy Childhood

1st Place Winner in People, Non-professional

Description: This is one of the Roma ghettos in Bulgaria. Near the capital. There, the children live in misery, in rubbish and mud. Forgotten by God? No, forgotten by the state and society. Their problems are never on the agenda. They may wait. And so, day after day, year after year. These little gypsies, I met recently , told me how difficult life they have: poverty, unemployed parents, wooden huts instead of homes, illiteracy.To survive , most are forced to beg or steal. They are such young children but their eyes, apart from being childishly naive, kind and curious, are somehow mature and wise, but at t

The Girl With The Cloudy Head

Anne Ziolo, France

2nd Place Winner in People, Non-professional

Description: During the first and very strict lockdown due to the pandemic of COVID-19 appeared behind the glass the girl with the cloudy head, free in her head and in her mind.

Suspended Lives

Salvatore Montemagno, Italy

1st Place Winner in Portfolio, Non-professional

Description: We are living in very dark times, full of anguish and fear, coming to us through the TV screens with real-time updates on the pandemic and through the window panes with the harrowing sound of sirens that repeat and chase each other all day. The pandemic has upset our lives, suspended them, and locked up at home, we wait to start living them again.I took these photos of my neighbors during the last period my region was in the red zone. Forgotten Artcheology

Christian Basetti, Italy

2nd Place Winner in Portfolio, Non-professional

Description: " Artcheology " is a term that I conceived to merge in a single word a creative photographic style linked to the world of abandoned places in decay: art and archeology.Archeology intended as the discovery of forgotten places of the pastThe approach with which I photograph this kind of places is artistic. I don't limit myself to shot the desolate scenes with an exclusively documentary spirit, but I always introduce a careful "fine art" vision, inspired by italian painter Caravaggio, where lights and shadows blend with the environments of ancient times, as in a painting.
